Current Notes

Labour Laws will be amended for Harmony

According to Mr. N. D. Tiwari, Union Labour Minister, the Government proposes to bring about amendments to the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders), 1946 Act and the Trade Union Act, 1926 in 1981-82. Mr. Tiwari said the amendments would be based on the views expressed by employers, workers, MPs and State Labour Ministers. He said it would be the Government's endeavour to maintain and preserve industrial harmony by securing the co-operation of workers and employers through consultations and discussions at tripartite meetings. Changes in the existing laws contemplated by the Government were also aimed at promoting industrial harmony and production.

(E. F. I., Bulletin, dated 15th February 1981)

Concept of workers participation in public sector

Mr. Pranab Mukherjee, Union Minister of Commerce, Steel and Mines addressed on February 4, 1981, the Joint National Seminar organised by Metal Workers Trade Union College, on the subject of "Workers Participation in Management—New Trends and Tasks Ahead".

The following extracts culled out from Mr. Mukherjee's address, with particular reference to the subject of Workers Participation in Public Sector will be read with interest.

"An assessment of the two Workers Participation schemes launched in 1975 and 1977 carried out recently indicated the shortfalls in implementation. The main difficulty in adopting/reviving the scheme seems to be the selection of workers representatives due to multiplicity of unions and absence of a recognised union in the enterprise. It was also felt that the scheme did not cover 'interest and related' issues and confined itself to 'work-related' issues.

The Government are seriously considering the ways and means of improving the implementation of the schemes as this is a subject which comes within the purview of the State Governments. The Union Labour Ministry in consultation with the State Labour Ministers is working out a scheme which would ensure that this important element of the 20 point programme is given a wider and deeper trial. The need for providing statutory support for implementation of the scheme is also under consideration.

Before I conclude, I would like to raise one issue which in some sense represents the heart of the matter. I am raising this issue so that you can discuss this in depth and also because this question is troubling not only me but also is in the back of the minds of all those people who support public sector fully and are committed to the public sector and to the rights of workers. The question which I would like to raise is that what is the role of workers and management in the public sector enterprise? In my view, public sector workers or management cannot think in "sectional" terms. In a purely capitalist economy, perhaps workers are correct in our country not truly relevant. What I want to say enterprises should or against the interest of the society. I am the society to which duties due to the ourselves. Society society can expect whether we are full perhaps workers are right in thinking in terms of "we" and "they" but is it correct in our context? One could argue that thinking in such categories is not truly relevant in our economy and in fact can become counter productive. What I want to say is that the concept of workers participation in public sector enterprises should not turn into a "compact" against the society's interest or against the interest of the country as whole. Every one of us is the product of the society. I am not merely a worker or a manager. I am an integral part of the society to which I belong. So naturally I cannot forget my obligations and duties due to the society. What we are today is not the exclusive creation of ourselves. Society had made a valuable contribution in building me up. So the society can expect a reasonable return from us. We are to address ourselves whether we are fulfilling our obligations to society by doing our best.

I will be honest and say that I do not know how to infuse this into the political perspective of the union of the workers but I do know that an achievement of such a perspective is an essential ingredient to safeguard our country's interest and our advance towards modernisation and building up of a society that meets the aspirations of all the sections of it."

Company Managed Provident Funds Suggested

A Government Committee to review the working of the Employee's Provident Fund Organization has suggested that all establishments employing more than 100 workers should be allowed to manage the provident fund, family pension and deposit-linked insurance schemes for employees.

It has recommended that such establishments should each set up its own board of trustees which should meet once a month, keep the various accounts, issue pass books to the subscribers and dispose of loan applications from them. Initially, to get the establishments to start operations, it has urged the Government to place some funds at their disposal.

The committee has also recommended that the Employees' Provident Fund Act, which now applied to establishments employing 20 or more people in specified industries, should be immediately extended to cover all establishments employing 10 or more people, regardless of the industry in which they are engaged. Departmental undertakings and establishments continue to be excluded. At present 197 industries and classes of establishments with 10.46 million subscribers are covered by the Act.

Mounting Arrears

The Employees' Provident Fund Review Committee was set up in April last with Shri G. Ramanujam, General Secretary of the Indian National Trade Union Congress as Chairman, to review the working of the EPF organization with special reference to the problems of mounting arrears of provident fund contributions. It was also expected to review the working of the schemes and to suggest amendments in the Act and the schemes.

Shri Ramanujam handed over this 150 page report to the Union Planning and Labour Minister, Shri Narayan Dutt Tiwari when he called upon him for the submission of the report.

Shri Tiwari is understood to have assured Shri Ramanujam that he would see to it that the recommendations of the committee were implemented within the next six months.

According to EPF authorities the total provident fund arrears amounted to Rs. 57.42 crores at the end of March last year. This included provident fund arrears of Rs. 25.35 crores from exempted establishments and Rs. 14.13 crores from exempted units, Rs. 1.55 crores on account of family pension fund, Rs. 1.15 crores due to Employees' Deposit-Linked Insurance and damages totalling Rs. 1.50 crores.

The committee has suggested that in view of complaints that the rate of interest paid to subscribers is too low and unrelated to the rate allowed by banks and public-sector undertakings on long term deposits, it has asked the Government to ensure that the rate of interest given to subscribers, is a reasonable return taking into the erosion in the value of the rupee on the one hand and the rate of interest on investments in long-term deposits with banks and public-sector undertakings on the other. Also, it has suggested interest be paid on monthly opening balances to the subscribers.

Noting that the bulk of the provident fund arrears of the textile industry (Rs. 11.23 crores) related to mills taken over by the National Textile Corporation, the committee has, among several other re-commendations, suggested that when the Government takes over a sick unit it should also take over the pre-nationalization liability on account of provident fund and other dues of the workers.

CMs Told To Enforce Palekar Award

Union Labour Minister Narayan Datt Tiwari has asked the Chief Ministers to see that the newspaper industry implements the Palekar tribunal's recommendations without further delay.

In a letter to the Chief Ministers, he has said apprehensions have been expressed that some of the establishments might not implement the recommendations or they might delay implementation.

"As enforcement is in the hands of the State Governments, I would, therefore, request you to use your good offices to see that the recommendations accepted by the Government are implemented without further delay", he said.

Shri Tiwari said there were reports that some newspapers were terminating the services of their part-time correspondents in the districts.

He noted that some newspaper establishments had already announced their decision to implement the recommendation.

However, others, including some leading establishments, have not yet given their decision, he added.

Shri Tiwari pointed out that under the provisions of Section 13 of the Working Journalists Act, journalist and non-journalist employees of the establishments were entitled to wages at rates specified in the Government orders.

President Reddy Appeals for Abjuring Strikes, Stirs

The President, Mr. Sanjiva Reddy, in his Republic Day eve broadcast, to the nation on January 25, 1981, appealed to all political parties and citizens to discourage strikes and agitations since it was the poor who were hit the hardest by economic disruption—and held keep up production in all vital spheres. Shortages inevitably led to high prices and wide spread privation. Mr. Reddy called upon all political parties including the ruling parties, to rise above controversy and treat the problem of public welfare as a national responsibility.

"The maintenance of law and order is as important as increased productivity for the welfare of the people. As we enter another year of our republic's life, let us all rededicate ourselves to the tasks of self-discipline to strive for greater unity, tolerance and compassion in tackling our problems," he said.

The President was happy to note that the general economic situation had begun to show some positive signs of improvement after a period of stagnation. Production in the core sectors like coal and power, he pointed out, was taking an upward curve, as a result of some timely steps taken by the government, the availability of essential supplies had somewhat improved and the price situation also was showing some signs of stability. But a lot more had to be done for increasing production, ensuring better distribution and containing inflation.

The President, however, pointed out that the country was passing through a difficult decade. It had to keep up with the velocity of change the world over to be able to cope with the mounting challenges of orderly development.

The task of combining economic growth with social justice could not be tackled by the government without the unstinted co-operation of all sections of the people. The living standards of the people, whether in towns or villages, could not be improved without increased agricultural and industrial production.

However, he said, it was sad to see that even employees with four figure incomes resorting to strikes to hold the country to ransom and compel the government to concede their demands with threats of further dislocation.

The President called upon the political parties not to encourage industrial unrest and impede production at a time when the country was faced with many difficult problems. "They must make this positive contribution to the economic recovery of the country by pledging their full co-operation. The organised labour, too, must play its part with people in the higher income groups eschewing strikes as a first step towards better industrial relations." India, he said, was going through what one might call the churning process out of which it was bound to emerge stronger with greater faith in its future.

We have yet to learn the hard way that reconciliation is more constructive than recrimination. The country has the capacity to opt for creative alternatives to some of the legacies of the past."

The President said the country would have to put greater content into freedom to make it more meaningful for the majority of the people living below the poverty line. The real challenge today for a developing country like India was now to combine economic growth with social justice.

Higher Wages For U. P. Khandsari Workers

The U. P. Government has revised the rates of minimum wages for the workers engaged in the khandsari industry.

In a notification issued by the Government on February 2, the minimum wage for adult unskilled workers has been fixed at Rs. 260 a month or Rs. 10 a day while the semi-skilled workers will get Rs. 299 a month or Rs. 11.50 a day.

Minimum wage of skilled worker has been fixed at Rs. 351 a month or Rs. 33.50 a day. Grade I employee will be paid Rs. 360 a month while Grade II employee will get Rs. 300 a month.

While the daily rate of wages shall not be less than one-twenty six of the corresponding monthly rate, the hourly rate shall not be less than one-sixth of the daily rate.

According to the notification, the time rate wage payable adolescents and children will not be less than three-fourth and two-third respectively of the time rate applicable to an employee.

Meanwhile, Shri Bhanu Pratap Singh, Minister for Cane Development, Sugar Industry and Excise, said at a public meeting at Satnavet in Ghaziabad district on February 1 that the Government would not allow exploitation of the farmers and the people.

To Check Lock-Outs, Strikes LABOUR LAWS BEING

The ensuing budget session of the Government has announced amendments to a number of Industrial Disputes Act, the Provident and Miscellaneous Plantation Labour Bill.

The amendments, it is speculated, made by the state labour laws included the widening of the scope of the Act, streamlining of the procedure for the payment of wages to all workers in the industry.

The Government, in its effort to check lock-outs and strikes, has brought amendments to the law. Lock-out in a public utility industry to enable the conciliation officer to take action.

Another measure being considered is the formation of a bipartite committee with the participation of the establishment and the recognised union, which are likely to result in the settlement of disputes.

However, there is a view that the use of lock-outs by employers as a weapon against workers is not a good thing. But the thinking is that this is a necessary step to protect the society.

The Supreme Court had struck down the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act and relevant portions of the Act. The view of the Court was that the use of lock-out by an employer was a fundamental right. This decision of the Supreme Court has led to a lock-out on the part of the employers.

Now there is the move to amend the Act and 25-N, making closure subject to the payment of retrenchment compensation.

If more than 10 per cent dues of the canegrowers remained outstanding against a mill-owner and its payment was not made, the Government would take over the mill, the Minister added.

Friendship between the two countries, contributing to peace and security in India and the world over.

The AUCCTU has wished the Indian workers and their trade unions further success in their noble cause of building up a new India.

(Indian Worker, dated 9th February 1981)

To Check Lock-Outs/Strikes

LABOUR LAWS BEING AMENDED

The ensuing budget session of the Lok Sabha is likely to witness the introduction of amendments to a number of the existing outmoded labour laws like the Industrial Disputes Act, the Industrial Employment Standing Orders Act, the Provident and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, the Payment of Wages Act and the Plantation Labour Bill.

The amendments, it is speculated, will broadly incorporate the recommendations made by the state labour ministers at their meeting last year. These included the widening of the definition of the term "industrial workmen", streamlining of the procedure of registration of trade unions and protection of wages to all workers in need of such protection.

The Government, in its efforts to put a check to the increasing incidents of lock-outs and strikes, has been considering measures to effectively deal with them. Lock-out in a public utility service will require 14 days notice from the employer to enable the conciliation machinery to step in and try to avert the action.

Another measure being considered is the setting up of a high level standing bipartite committee with the representation of the chief executive of an establishment and the recognised union for speedy action to avoid situations that are likely to result in lock-out.

However, there is a view that lock-out should be made available to the employers as a weapon corresponding to strikes available to the workers. But the thinking is that his rights need to be limited in the larger interests of the society.

The Supreme Court had struck down section 25-0 of the Industrial Disputes Act and relevant portions of Section 25-R of the Act in so far as they relate to penalty for closure without prior permission of the appropriate government. The view of the Court was that the right to start a business or close it down by an employer was a fundamental right guaranteed under the constitution. This decision of the Supreme Court necessitated the need for 14 days notice for a lock-out on the part of the employer.

Now there is the move to amend Section 25-0 on the lines of Sections 24-M and 25-N, making closure subject to notice with provisions. Notice pay and payment of retrenchment compensation are also under review.

In the case of genuine closures, arising out of economic considerations which may not always be possible to regulate, no industrial dispute can be raised by the workmen. The desire now is to make the concerned economic ministries to take remedial measures and provide necessary assistance to the undertakings to prevent closures.

Section 25 FFA, exempting establishments employing less than 50 workmen from giving 60 days notice of their intended closure is also likely to be amended to exempt only such establishments which employ 10 workmen.

There is also the realisation that for effective functioning of the trade union their functionaries employed in industrial undertakings need to be given adequate safeguards against acts of victimisation by employers.

The suggestions under consideration in this regard are (i) the status of protected workmen as per section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, to be accorded to the president, vice-president, general secretary and executive members of the recognised union subject to a maximum of 10, (ii) protection from suspension or dismissal to be extended to protected workmen during the pendency of proceedings in respect of an industrial dispute raised by their union except in cases of involvement in violence, assault and gherao (iii) transfer from one unit to another of the same employer to be treated as an alteration of the conditions of service under sub-section (3) (a) of Section 33 of the Act and prohibited and (iv) disputes regarding victimisation of the union office-bearers to be automatically referred to adjudication or arbitration of the union concerned so desired.

Up Farm Labour Wages Raised

The Government of Uttar Pradesh has in a notification issued here on January 9 has revised and fixed the minimum rates of wages payable to adult employees of over 18 years of age, engaged in agriculture in the State with effect from January 9 this year.

The minimum wages may be paid in cash or in kind, or partly in cash and partly in kind. The employees whose presence on duty may be less than six hours a day or 36 hours a week, shall be treated as part-time employees and their hourly rates shall be not less than one sixth of the corresponding daily rates.

ESI to Cover 3 lakh more Workers

The employees' State Insurance Corporation has drawn up plans to cover three lakh more workers next year.

With this addition, there will be three crore beneficiaries under the medical care programme of the Corporation. The Corporation is likely to spend Rs. 156 crore on medical care and cash benefits next year.

Presiding over the 67th meeting of the Corporation here on February 8, Smt. Ramdulari Sinha, Minister of State for Labour, emphasised the need to set up holiday and rest homes for insured workers and their families.

She said the disablement benefit will be increased from 125 per cent to 140 per cent.

Smt. Sinha informed that the meeting of the Labour Ministers of Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Karnataka and Goa would meet here on February 10 to States for the administrative arrangements.

The meetings will also discuss the measures to be taken in the event of closure of establishments.

The Government has set up a committee in the Ministry of Labour, and its members to review the present provisions of the Act.

She said the disablement benefit and dependants' benefit had been increased from 125 per cent to 140 per cent of the standard benefit rate.

Smt. Sinha informed the meeting that the Labour Minister of Arunachal Pradesh, Gujarat, Karnataka, Punjab, Rajasthan and the Union Territory of Goa would meet here on February 14, to discuss the delegation of more powers to States for the administration of medical care.

The meetings will also consider the question of a fund for assistance to workers in the event of closure of an undertaking.

The Government has set a committee of officials with the Additional Secretary, Ministry of Labour, as chairman and the Labour Secretaries of States as members to review the progress of extension of the scheme to new areas.

Workers' Participation in Management

Today the labour is no more a mere factor in all production processes, but a 'human factor' demanding human considerations. Hence all efforts in the industrial world are directed towards the establishment of industrial peace through a proper relationship between the managements and the workers. In this context, 'Workers' participation in management' is regarded as the most important instrument for establishing industrial peace and ending industrial unrest. It is now recognised that participative management will increase not only the efficiency of the workers but also industrial production.

Workers' participation in management includes participation in the framing of policies and in the profit of the industry. It may be well defined as 'an active association of the representatives of labour with management'. According to Dr. V. G. Mhetras, "Applied to industry, the concept of participation means sharing the decision making power by the rank and file of an industrial organisation through their proper representatives at the appropriate levels of management in the entire range of managerial action". In fact, it is an active co-operation between workers and the management. Industrialists call it 'Joint Consultation' workers as 'Co-decision' or 'Co-determination', and the Government regards it as 'Industrial-democracy'.

Need and Significance

Allen Flanders has very rightly commented, "The workers' claim to be consulted by management is fundamentally a moral one. It rests on its merits regardless of economic results. As human beings they have dignity and are entitled to self-respect". To increase the efficiency of the workers and the industrial production, the participation of workers in the management is of great significance and serves a number of useful advantages. It is the call of the hour that 'Indian Labour' should be given due share in the management so that his dignity and respect remain intact. It will advance and strengthen 'industrial democracy' and the creation of the industrial democracy is the sine qua non of establishing economic democracy based on the principles of a Socialist society.

It will provide for cordial and harmonious industrial relations and accelerate industrial peace. It will put an effective check on strikes and lock-outs. Workers will start thinking the management. It will in

Forms of workers' part

Workers may be given three methods : (a) Election of representatives (b) Appointment of trade union representatives and (c) By participation of workers in the management. The Workers Councils, Joint Management Committees, foremen and the representatives of workers on the management committees because of the illiteracy of workers, partnership or co-ownership, profit sharing, the purchase of some shares, etc. have due right in the management.

Workers' participation

Before Independence, no law was made by the Government for the representation of workers in the management. The Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 passed and it provided for the representation of workers in the management of enterprises employing 100 or more workers. The association and co-operation of workers in the management was emphasised.

In 1956, the Government set up a study group consisting of the representatives of management and workers. The study group recommended the formation of a Consultative Committee of Management and Workers in its 15th session. The recommendations of the study group were adopted in the 16th session of the Consultative Committee in Management. The report showed that the majority of enterprises had adopted the system of participation in the management. The progress of various enterprises was also reported.

(1) Works Committee : This system was introduced in establishments employing 50 or more workers in 1978, works committee system was introduced.

(2) Joint Management : This system was introduced in 1957 in the Sampson's Engineering Works in 1957, the Transport Engineering Works in 1957, a joint management committee was set up in a factory, Bangalore (a public sector enterprise), followed by the Tata Steel Works in January, 1975, there were many other enterprises in the private industry.

will start thinking themselves as a 'part and parcel' of the concern and the management. It will increase the efficiency of labour and industrial production.

Forms of workers' participation

Workers may be given participation in the management, through the following three methods : (a) Establishment of Works-committee or works-council ; (b) Appointment of the representatives of workers on the board of directors ; and (c) By participation in the ownership or co-ownership or co-partnership. The Workers Councils or Works Committees consist of the executive officers, foremen and the representatives of the workers. The induction of the representatives of workers on the board of directors has not been a successful scheme because of the illiteracy, poverty and of attitudes of workers. Under co-partnership or co-ownership, the workers are given a share of profit against the purchase of some shares of the concern and thus become share-holders and have due right in the management.

Workers' participation in India and its progress

Before Independence, nothing was done in concrete terms except that an attempt was made by the Delhi Cloth Mills in 1932 to give participation of the workers' representatives in the management. In 1947, the Industrial Disputes Act was passed and it provided for the establishment of ' Works Committees ' consisting of the representatives of the employees and the employers for the concerns employing 100 or more workers. In all the Industrial Policy Resolutions, greater association and co-operation of the labour with the management has been emphasised.

In 1956, the Government of India sent abroad a ten member study group consisting of the representatives of employees, employers and the Government. The study group recommended for the setting up of Joint councils or Joint consultatives of Management in the selected units. The Indian Labour Conference in its 15th session (met in New Delhi in July 1957) accepted the recommendations of the study group. In September, 1977, on the Workers' Participation in Management. The report of the Committee, submitted to the Government, showed that the majority of the members favoured the adoption of a three-tier system of participation, viz., at the corporate level, plant level and shopfloor level. The progress of various schemes has been as under :—

(1) Works Committees.—Works committees have been set up in industrial establishments employing one hundred or more workers. On December 31, 1978, works committee were functioning in 647 establishments in the central sector.

(2) Joint Management Council.—The joint management council was set up in 1957 in the Sampson Group (Madras) of the private sector. In September 1957, the Transport Engineering Workshop, a public sector unit, also set up a joint management council. In July, 1958, Hindustan Machine Tools Factory, Bangalore (a public sector unit) establishment a joint management council, followed by Tata Iron and Steel Company (TISCO) in 1959. In January, 1975, there were in all 80 councils—31 in the public sector and 49 in the private industrial undertakings.

(3) Workers' representatives on the Board of Directors.—The Central Government has introduced a scheme for the appointment of workers' representatives on the boards of management (or directors) of a few public sector undertakings on a trial basis. As a beginning, a worker-director was appointed in the Hindustan Antibiotics Ltd., Pimpri and also in the nationalised banks.

(4) Joint Councils and Shop Councils.—On October 31, 1975, the Government introduced a scheme for 'workers' participation in the Industry' at the shop-floor and plant-levels. The scheme envisaged setting up of 'shop councils' and 'joint councils' in the manufacturing and mining industries, whether in the public, private or co-operative sectors employing 500 or more workers.

According to the latest available figures, the scheme has been implemented in 545 undertakings of the Central Government, 167 undertakings of the State Governments, 99 units of co-operative sector and 1,132 units of the private sector. Besides in the industrial policy statement, announced in July 1980, the Government has emphasised to revive the tripartite labour conference.

Difficulties in the Way of Workers' Participation and Suggestions

This system is always opposed by employers. It is argued that this system will discourage the private sector, and private industrialists would hesitate in investing their money and establishing new industries. Illiteracy, orthodoxy, conservatism and inefficiency of Indian labour is also a great problem in the way of participation. Multiplicity of trade unions also cause great difficulty in the implementation and working of the scheme because of diversification of interests and non-co-operation of various trade unions. For the success of the scheme, the following suggestions may be offered :—

(1) A mass educational campaign should be launched to educate both the parties so that they may understand the scheme completely. It will also change their outlook and will teach them that fighting is not the only way of solving problems.

(2) The public sector should set an example for the private sector by implementing the scheme successfully and effectively.

(3) Some workers' representatives should also be technical experts so that they may participate with employers in technical, financial and administrative matters.

(4) Some other suggestions are : (a) Encouraging the collective bargaining system, (b) Minimising the disparity of income and wealth ; (c) Encouraging the development of responsible and constructive trade unions ; (d) placing more emphasis on the practical side of the scheme ; and (e) Units implementing the scheme successfully should be rewarded properly.

Epilogue

Ours is a developing economy and we aspire to achieve a egalitarian society and without achieving industrial democracy through the successful implementation of the scheme the cherished objective can never be realised. The Government is taking steps to implement the scheme laid on the development Plans and also in the Policy Statement, industrial relations industrial undertakings working as it is a part of the industry. The success of the scheme depends on the ability of the parties, the ability to implement the scheme in industrial undertakings connected with the slow, yet the scheme Government is taking keen and active interest in this direction and is trying to implement the scheme in more and more concerns. An added stress has been laid on the development and implementation of this scheme in our Five-Year Plans and also in the Industrial Policy Resolutions. In the new Industrial Policy Statement, the Government has emphasised the promotion of better industrial relations and the implementation of the scheme in more and more industrial undertakings. This scheme will take time for its successful and effective working as it is a long drawn process and we know that 'Rome was not built in a day'. The success of this scheme depends on the willingness of the concerned parties, the ability and efficiency of workers, presence of participation potential in industrial undertakings and strong and responsible trade unions closely connected with the machinery of participation. Though the progress has been slow, yet the scheme has a bright future in India.

MAHARASHTRA EMPLOYMENT GUARANTEE (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1980

The following Bill was introduced in the Maharashtra Legislative Assembly on 19th December 1980

L. A. BILL No. LXV OF 1980

A BILL

to amend the Maharashtra Employment Guarantee Act, 1977

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Maharashtra Employment Guarantee Act, 1977 (Mah. XX of 1978) for the purposes hereinafter appearing ; It is hereby enacted in the Thirty-First Year of the Republic of India as follows

1. This Act may be called the Maharashtra Employment Guarantee (Amendment) Act, 1980.

2. Substitution of paragraph (j) of section 2 of Mah. XX of 1978.—In section 2 of the Maharashtra Employment Guarantee Act, 1977 (hereinafter referred to as "the principal Act") for paragraph (j) the following shall be substituted, namely

(j) "rural areas" means all the areas of the State of Maharashtra except those for which a Municipal Corporation or Cantonment Board was established or constituted under any law for the time being in force; and any area, which after the passing of this Act comes to be included within the limits of a Municipal Corporation or Cantonment Board shall cease to be a rural area from the date of such inclusion ;

3. Amendment of section 7 of Mah. XX of 1978.—In section 7 of the principal Act, in paragraph for the portion beginning with "The schedule of rates shall be so fixed" and ending with "from time to time", the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"The schedule of rates shall be so fixed that a person working diligently for 7 hours a day would be entitled to get a total wage equal to the minimum wage for agricultural labourer for the zone concerned within which the said work may fall or equal to minimum wage for the urban unskilled worker of the said work fixed by the State Government from time to time "

Statement of Objects and Reasons

The Maharashtra Employment Guarantee Act, 1977 applies only to rural areas and to the areas of "C" Class Municipal Councils. Areas of Municipal Corporation and "A" and "B" class municipal areas are excluded from the purview of the Act. Right to Work for applicable to all amongst the unskilled equally serious. Corporations and proposes to apply and "B" class purview of the Act. The exclusion does not appear to be reasonable since the Right to Work for Indian citizens under article 41 of our Constitution is applicable to all adult persons in the State and the problem of unemployment amongst the unskilled population in the areas of bigger municipal councils is equally serious. However, the Bill, for the present, excludes the Municipal Corporations and Cantonment Boards from the application of the Act but proposes to apply the provisions of the Act to the Municipal areas of "A" and "B" class municipal councils.

The Act further lays down that the wages of a person working diligently for 7 hours a day would be normally equal to the minimum wage for agricultural labourer "for the lowest zone" fixed by the State Government. This restriction is not justified when the Act in section 7(2) (vi) stipulates that the wages shall be directly linked "with the quality and quantity of work". It is, therefore, proposed to provide for the minimum wage for Employment Guarantee Scheme work equal to minimum wage for Agricultural labourer of that area or equal to minimum wage for unskilled urban worker as may be fixed by State Government for that area. This amendment would remove the unfair restriction on the quantum of wage.

purview of the Act. The exclusion does not appear to be reasonable since the Right to Work for Indian citizens under article 41 of our Constitution is applicable to all adult persons in the State and the problem of unemployment amongst the unskilled population in the areas of bigger municipal councils is equally serious. However, the Bill, for the present, excludes the Municipal Corporations and Cantonment Boards from the application of the Act but proposes to apply the provisions of the Act to the Municipal areas of "A" and "B" class municipal councils.

The Act further lays down that the wages of a person working diligently for 7 hours a day would be normally equal to the minimum wage for agricultural labourer "for the lowest zone" fixed by the State Government. This restriction is not justified when the Act in section 7(2) (vi) stipulates that the wages shall be directly linked "with the quality and quantity of work". It is, therefore, proposed to provide for the minimum wage for Employment Guarantee Scheme work equal to minimum wage for Agricultural labourer of that area or equal to minimum wage for unskilled urban worker as may be fixed by State Government for that area. This amendment would remove the unfair restriction on the quantum of wage.

AGRAWAL'S
SUPREME COURT
SERVICE AND LABOUR DIGEST 1959-79
(1976 Edition with 1979 Supplement)

In 100 Royal Pages-Deluxe Binding-Price Rs. 100.00

Service cases have increased to such a great extent that the Government had to constitute Service Tribunals to relieve the Superior Courts of the arrears. Even then, the Supreme Court is now full of cases of the Government Servants. The book digests all the cases decided by the Supreme Court relating to the Government servant of all categories, Central and States, including Servants of Public Undertakings.

The book also digests all the Supreme Court Cases of Central and State Laws relating to all Industrial and Non-Industrial Private Undertakings.

Since the Supreme Court judgments are the law of the Land and since the Supreme Court has by now covered almost every important point of law therefore, all concerned are keen to refer to one Supreme Court judgment on a point rather than to hunt out several cases on that point by the different High Courts therefore, this book will be found useful by Bench, Bar, Industrial Tribunals, Labour Courts, Labour officers, Employers and Employees.

Various Journals have spoken very highly of this book in their reviews which shows the quality and popularity of this book.

This Digest has many salient features.
